

Temple
by Carla Caruso

Colour me beautiful

The right hue can make a lasting impression on those who count.

Want to be a chameleon or stand out at your next interview or date?

Sydney personal stylist Robin Powis knows all about making an impression with colour and can stop you from fading into the wallpaper.

Career-wise, she says: "For a conservative job interview, the best colours to wear are charcoal grey or navy blue. Also ideal are royal blue, which is affirmative and shows faithfulness and trustworthiness, and black with neutral tones, which radiates a sense of power and intensity."

For men, Powis recommends adding hints of other shades too. "Touches of colour are always good

Sydney hair brand
a best new product gong at Day Miracle item.

at interviews and business meetings. So, they could try a yellow tie or even a muted purple tie with matching pocket square."

In the love stakes, if you want to make an impression with a potential partner, Powis's top tip for a romantic date is donning scarlet, red or orange-red to be considered exciting or crimson for passion and sexual energy. Hello!

"If you want to come over as flirtatious or playful, wear pale yellow-based pinks and, if you want the night to seem to go on forever, try deep blue reds – they distort the perception of time." Nice.

For a design and style service or a colour consultation, phone Powis on 0419 468 272.

Award-winning body artist Emma Hack knows a thing or two about colour. She has just exhibited a collection of Florence Broadhurst wallpaper images in Sydney, featuring a mixture of male and female muses (above and left). She continues to keep busy with creative projects, including corporate events and fashion parades. More? www.emmahackartist.com
Florence Broadhurst wallpaper, courtesy of Signature Prints.

photography shutterstock/invisioner

Original & Mineral has won the Australian Hair Fashion Awards with its Seven Visit www.originalmineral.com.

Health spot

WIN A SPIRITUAL VIP PACK!

The One psychic
Charmaine Wilson will perform a Sydney show on June 12.

Wilson promises a bit of humour at The Factory event. "I believe that mediums are meant to heal grief – not deal it – so the spirits come through with love and laughter."

We have two VIP packs to give away to her show, including a double pass, her new book, Spirit Whispers, two pins and a meet-and-greet with her. To win, visit www.ninetofive.com.au.

Great find

OZ'S FIRST COSMIC LOUNGE

Cosmic guru Rebecca Dettman, behind www.psychedinstilettos.com, has opened the nation's first psychic "spa". Dettman describes the chic new space as "Calvin Klein minimalism meets Estee Lauder salon". The only downside for Sydneysiders? It's in Adelaide. However, she has just begun conducting readings on the phone or via Skype as well. Cool. And, you'll be in good company – comic duo Hamish & Andy have already been "read"!

Turn back the clock

Got sun-damaged skin? Pearl Fractional by Cutera is a new volumising fractional laser, which helps improve sun-damaged skin and its tone and texture. The treatment works by laser pulses placing tiny holes deep in the skin, removing damaged tissue. The result? A smoother and brighter complexion. Lovely. It will set you back $2000, but only one treatment is needed. Head to Results Skin and Body Clinic, Suite 55, Level 10, 88 Pitt St, City. Ph: 9222 1122.

Product of the week

LE COQ SPORTIF ECLAT M&M'S SHOES, $159.95

In a unique collaboration, French brand Le Coq Sportif has teamed with choccy name M&M's on footwear. Limited to 500 pairs of sneakers worldwide, the sides of the soles are meant to resemble melting chocolate, while the sole itself looks as though a packet of M&M's has been mashed into it. Yum!

VANITY CASE

FACE BOUTIQUE'S 'GET STARTED: GOOD SKIN KIT', $66.95

Unfortunately, the struggle for good skin doesn't end in your teens. Enter Face Boutique's new Get Started: Good Skin Kit. It includes a "peachy clean" foaming facial wash, "fresh-faced" moisturising gel and "spot-less" blemish gel. Plus, all of it has lovely botanical ingredients. Find the kit at Kit Cosmetics stores. Ph: 1800 705 800.

